Dr. J. C. Aver—Dear Sir:—Agreeable to the request of your agent, we will cheerfully state what we have known of the effects of your CHERRY PECTORAL and they have been astenishing indeed. Mrs. Betsey Streeter had been afflicted with a severe and relentless cough, which reduced her very low; so low that little hope could be entertained of her receivery. Numerous remedies had been tried without effect, before the Cherry Pectoral. And that has cured her. George Watkinson Esq., had to our knowledge been afflicted with Asthma, for eleven years, and grown yearly worse, until the Cherry Poctoral has now removed the disease and he is as free from any of its symptoms as we are. The Rev. Mark Dane had been so severely attacked with the Bronchitis, as to disable him from his duties, and nothing had afforded him relief until 1 (Mr. Thorning) carried him a bottle of your Pectoral, which cured him at once, and he now officiates as usual in his place.

To the northward of Uppernavick many streams of floe ice were found extending from the main pack close into the land. Through these, with a fair wind. we found little difficulty in forcing our way, until we approached Baffin's Island, in the latitude of 74 degrees. Here the ice appeared so close and continuous along the land that our progress in that direction was arrested. At the same time a clear and wide opening presented itself leading to the west .-We had a fair wind to enter it, and it was so directly in our course for Lancaster Sound that I could not resist the temptation; particularly as the passage looked to be almost hopeless by the usual northern route through Melville Bay.

For several hours our hopes of a speedy and direct passage appeared to be confirmed, but after a run of orty miles, ice was made and on both sides in a continuous line. We had but entered a deep bight in the main pack.

To return to the eastward whence we came would. perhaps, have cost us days, with the uncertainty of being able to get along even then. Besides, of the only three authentic accounts of attempts to make the passage through the pack in about this latitude,

In view of these facts, I thought it advisable to enter the pack and endeavor to push through it, in

The wind by this time had freshened to a gale, which, together with a thick fog, made our position not a little embarrasing. Every family of emigrants, on arriving, receives a town bot, for mercantile and mechanical business, or a farm sufficient for the support of the family; and As appears by comparing the census of 1843 with the numbers added since that time, the emigrant population, consisting of emancipated slaves and free colored people from the United States, Africans rescued from slave traders, and their descendants, is about 6.000. The whole population, including natives subject to the laws of the republic, is about Many of the natives have become in some degree civilized. Several hundred of them are voters at the elections, and eligible to office, and some of them hold office. In 1845, when the last census was taken, there were in Liberia 16 schools with 562 scholars. Of these 190 were children of native parents; and there were some of them in every school except two .-There were then 23 churches, with 1474 communicants, of whom 469 were native Africans, converted from heathenism. Twenty of the churches had native African members. Since that time, the civilized population has more than doubled, and schools, churches, and members of both have increased, but we have no precise account of them. We know, however, that two high schools have been established, and that the churches have received large accessions, both by emigration. and as the fruit of revivals and missionary labors among the heathen.

The exports are estimated at $500,000 annually, and the imports, probably, about the same. This, however, must include a large amount of irregular trade at places where there are no ports of entry, for want of merchants to conduct business there.

France. From France there is nothing of special moment. A state of general quietude prevails. Denmark and the Duchies.

The Schleswig Holstein army attempted to take by two battalions of infantry and a detachment of riflemen. After a desperate struggle, in which both parties must have experienced very heavy losses, the Danes gave way, but only to seek cover of new entrenchments and barricades thrown up in the middle of the town. The resistance which they met with here was so violent and determined that, notwithstanding the exhibition of most brilliant bravery, the Schleswig Holsteiners were compelled to retire from the town at midnight. They afterwards took up a position, and the conflict was to be renewed on the following mornigg.

The loss sustained by the Schleswig Holsteiners is yet unknown. Both sides behaved extremely well. Gen. Willisen writes his dispatch in a very dispirited tone. The Holsteiners now find they are in want of ted Germany.

The state of Germany itself continues to excite great alarm.

It is stated as positive, that a decision, respecting the Holstein question, has been come to by England, France. What friend of the Union can be blind to the consequences of the excitement which has prevailed through the land? Who does not see the signs. which are deepening, of the alienation and even the disgust which begins to pervade the South! We are familiar with the schism which prevails in most of the churches, and the rites of religion itself are insufficient to keep down the rage of fanaticism. The Episcopal church is too wise to meddle with the subiect of slavery, and therefore the union of this church is coextensive as the Union itself. In South Carolina associations are forming which refuse to use Northern coasters to transport their crop. or to wear Northern clothing. Hundreds of parents have determined not to send their sons to Northern colleges The Northern watering-places are becoming decidedly unpopular. A general feeling of hostility begins to show itself in the more Southern States; and unless the spirit of fanaticism can be arrested in the North, the ties which bind the Union together are gradually giving way. How can it survive these continued shocks? It is bound together by sympathy as well as interest; and if these two cements are destroyed, how can it survive ? These facts inculcate a lesson upon our Northern brethren which ought never to be forgotten. The Boston Atlas may ridicule these movements. It may laugh at the phantom of disunion. It may contend that it will never come to this extremity, because it is the interest of the South to obtain the manufactures of the North; but the man who preached up that there was no danger of the American revolution, because we could never exist without the trade and manufactures of England, was just as wise as the obstinate prophets of the present day. - Union.

New Livery Stables .- Fire_Proof. HAVING completed my new Livery Stables, I am now ready to receive Horses at livery, by the day, My Stables are situated on the corner of Princess and Third Streets, directly opposite the Court-House, and very convenient to the business part of the town. They are built of brick, and covered with tin, which makes them entirely FIRE-PROOF. They are large, commodious, and well constructed; and in every respect as comfortable and convenient as any Stables in the United States.

I also have (for the accommodation of Drovers,) a large and comfortable Lot, together with a basement under the Stables sufficient to hold one hundred horses, and shelter them welf and comfortably.

Horses, Carriages, and Buggles, kept constantly for hireMy Hostlers cannot be surpassed in any country, and I therefore feel confident of giving entire satisfaction to those who favor me with their custom.

I feel grateful to my friends and the public for their liberal patronage heretofore, and hope to merit a continuance of their H. R. NIXON. Wilmington, N. C., Dec. 11, 1847.
